Working Group on CBA / DRR

Facilitator Marcus Oxley - 27 members

1. Develop a common community resilience framework for action that incorporates community-based disaster risk reduction and adaptation
 - Based on community-derived characteristics of resilience
 - Framed within broader context of sustainable development
 - Clear definitions of terms and understanding of relationship between CBA and DRR
2. Establish a global independent participatory monitoring process to set baselines and measure changes in community resilience (2012)
3. Enhance use of existing methodologies and tools and develop practical guidelines for incorporation of DRR and CBA into key development sectors
4. Strong examples of integrated community-based DRR and CBA approaches in key development sectors

CBA / DRR WG Priority for Action 2011-12

Develop a common community resilience framework for action which incorporated CBA and DRR - February 2011.

Benefits

- Support greater coherence, coordination and synergy between DRR and CBA communities
- Reduce duplication of efforts and avoid confusion at community level
- Guidance for policy makers and practitioners in programme design, planning and implementation
- Can inform advocacy actions aimed at formulation of appropriate national CBA and DRR policies and legislation
- Form basis for an independent local-level monitoring and verification process
- Supports more effective policy execution through greater transparency and accountability

Working Group on Monitoring & Evaluation & Learning for CBA

Facilitator: Bettine

What is adaptive capacity?

- Resilient and robust livelihoods (Including reduced vulnerability)
- The improved ability of individuals, organizations and institutions ability to respond to changes
- Increased problem solving capacity: Understanding the risks you are facing and being able to identify and implement possible solutions
- More than just a way of coping – But transformational based on the willingness to embrace change and to adapt
- People being able to empower themselves and being in charge of their lives, the adaptation strategies...

Key areas we need to address:

Development of a robust ME&L approach including:

- Develop robust indicators and processes for participatory indicator generation
- How to establish baseline data for Adaptive Capacity
- Integrating lessons learnt from other sectors
- Factors affecting adaptive capacity
- Development of processes & tools for ME&L
- Learning processes in ME&L (on all levels!)
- Reflexive practice in ME&L

Next steps:

- Ongoing discussion and methodology development facilitated by Anna Taylor on the WeAdapt website as a blog, and possibly later on as a Wiki.

Working Group on Civil Society Governance of CBA

- Facilitator: Rachel Berger, Practical Action
- Group members: 13

What the group has done this week: (Very short meeting of 5 group members)

- Objectives established:
 - Share experiences on CBA governance, as case studies, both successes and challenges
 - Generate interest in governance issues among CBA community
 - Monitor existing involvement of CS in governance for learning (i.e. not just of CBA)
 - Advocating for civil society involvement in governance of CBA
 - Internationally, in relation to UNFCCC and future funding
 - integration of CS governance into mainstreaming of adaptation at national level

What the group plans to do:

- Establish a page on weAdapt to explain the issues
- Set up a blog for people to contribute experiences
- Review in 6 months to assess level of activity

CBA Layer in Google Earth & CBA-x

Facilitator: Anna Taylor

- Convened a working group of 14 people
- Shared interests in using knowledge management, communication and visualisation tools
- Plan to continue the engagement online regarding redesign of CBA-x, use of Google Earth, and building the socio-institutional networks to support information and knowledge sharing
