	10.30am – 11am	Tea break
	11am – 12.30pm	Plenary session 2: key concepts and terms in CBA Room: Winter Garden

		Chair: Charles Ehrhart, CARE Participants in the 2009 and 2010 CBA conferences identified a number of “frequently asked questions” about CBA. This plenary session will summarize how some experts answer those questions, highlighting where there is ambiguity as well as growing consensus. The session will begin with two presentations. The first will consider what we mean by adaptation, how it relates to resilience, and how it differs from coping. The second will examine what we mean by CBA, focusing on common principles, core practices and relationship to Ecosystem-based Adaptation. Presentations will be followed by a panel discussion asking: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What do we mean by saying someone is “vulnerable to climate change,” and how does this differ from other forms of vulnerability? • How can we differentiate between sustainable development and CBA projects, and is it necessary to do so? • How can we differentiate between disaster risk reduction and CBA projects, and is it necessary to do so? • What do we mean by “mitigation” in the context of climate change, and how does this differ from how this term is used by DRR practitioners? • How does CBA relate to adaptation action at sub-national and national levels? • What do we mean by “climate-proof,” “climate-smart,” “climate-resilient,” or “climate-compatible”? And where does the challenge of mitigating climate change fit in relation to CBA? • What do we mean by “empowerment,” and why is it relevant to the adaptation challenge? • Should CBA projects address social inequalities, or is this a distraction from the adaptation challenge? This will be followed by questions and discussion between plenary participants and panel members, ending with a summation. The session’s overarching objective is to increase common understanding around key concepts and terms as a basis for productive discussions later in CBA5.
	12.30pm – 1.30pm	Lunch
	1.30pm – 3.00pm	Parallel session 3: Adaptive capacity – why it is significant? How do we support it? Room: Winter Garden Chair: Rachel Berger, Practical Action <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Managing sloping and shifting cultivation lands for climate change adaptation and sustainable livelihoods - Krishna Lamsal, Gyan Bandhu Sharma and Keshav Thapa, LI-BIRD, Nepal • Adaptation capacity of fishing communities to climate vulnerabilities and changes for improving their livelihoods – a case study conducted in Cox’s Bazar district of Bangladesh - Srijita Dasgupta, Mahidol University, Thailand • The importance of adaptive capacity in designing Ethiopian adaptation programmes - Kirsty Wilson, ACCRA Ethiopia • Enhancing resiliency: lessons from working with indigenous communities in the highlands of Peru - Lorena del Carpio, Oxfam America • Participatory approaches for adaptation project identification - George Kasali, The Copperbelt University / Energy and Environmental Concerns for Zambia • Climate change adaptation: experiences of small holder farmers in northern Nigeria - John Ajigo, Nigerian Environmental Study/Action Team (NEST) • The CBA initiatives of Caritas Bangladesh - Anwara Begum and Mijanur Rahman, Caritas Fisheries Program, Bangladesh Parallel session 4: Water governance and climate adaptation Room: Ball Room Chair: Katherine Cross, IUCN <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Integrating climate change adaptation into water governance institutions in Tanzania, Uganda and Kenya: Transforming policy into practice - Katharine Cross, IUCN, Onesmo Zakaria, IUCN et al. • Dealing with domestic water supply in climate vulnerable areas: pilot and beyond pilot - Kazi Rashed Hayder, Aftab Opel,
